quotes from Millennium founders Nelson & Evelyn Figueroa. “It was great to pull back the curtain and show the world the pride and dedication to excellence that each of our employees have in crafting these stunning vehicles that represent a lifelong dream for many of our clients.” Says Evelyn Figueroa

Upcoming episodes, which the company will be revealing on their website and through various media outlets, will be premiered over the course of the year and beyond. “We have such a great time building our coaches and working with our amazing team to create these rolling mansions, while enjoying everything that’s involved in this RV lifestyle, but for the majority of the public all they get to see is the finished product. The Journey is all about what goes in to building our coaches, and the people behind them, but also exposes the fascinating Journey our coaches and their owners take once they leave our facility.”

Millennium won’t have any problem with interesting topics either. Over the company’s 13 year history of coach building their craftsmen have been tested many times over to meet customer’s custom requests for features and amenities often not associated with motorhome living. “From motorcycle and golf cart storage, to a rolling art gallery, and decked out play bays for kids and even one for Cats, we’ve built just about everything” says Nelson Figueroa. And according to Nelson he wouldn’t want it any other way, “Our customer’s over the top requests help keep us on the cutting edge of design and innovation,” something that the company is known for within the industry.

According to Nelson Figueroa “The Journey may begin now, but thanks to our phenomenal team, amazing customers, and this fascinating lifestyle, there’s no end in sight.
